Bilderberg 2024 or How the Elite Subverts Politics, Technology, Big Pharma and the Media

This year's Bilderberg meeting took place in Madrid, Spain with little media attention. However, there were big names, big companies and big government officials present to discuss bigger topics that'll shape the world for years to come. Here's what took place at Bilderberg 2024.

The 2024 Bilderberg Conference was the event's 70th edition, and there are no signs of winding down. Quite to the contrary, considering the notability of this year's attendees and the scope of the topics discussed, it is clear that the Bilderbergers are more determined than ever to bend the world according to their will.

literally colliding behind closed doors in secret meetings. This feeling is exacerbated by the fact that Bilderberg Conferences operate under Chatham House rules, which require participants to be sworn to secrecy and not disclose the identity or affiliation of any particular speaker.

This year's event occurred from May 30 to June 2nd at Eurostars Suites in Madrid. While a high level of security usually surrounds these conferences, this year's event was simply absurd. And, when a fleet of police vans escorted the King of Spain to the Conference (although he was not listed in the official list of attendees) while a hive of surveillance drones hovered around the premises, the site resembled a dystopian police state.

The discussions at Bilderberg meetings are held in complete secrecy, but its official website usually publishes a (rather laconic) list of topics on the agenda. This year's topics were:

- State of AI
- AI Safety
- Changing Faces of Biology
- Climate
- Future of Warfare
- Geopolitical Landscape
- Europe's Economic Challenges
- US Economic Challenges
- US Political Landscape
- Ukraine and the World
- Middle East
- China
- Russia

These topics can be summed up in a single sentence: "How can we utilize politics, technology, big pharma and the media to bring about a global world order"?

Here's a look at Bilderberg 2024.

Shaping AI to Serve the Elite

As seen above, artificial intelligence was an important topic at Bilderberg 2024. This incredibly powerful technology is currently in its infancy, and you better believe that the global elite wants to shape its development to fit its needs. To do so, the Bilderbergers do not create "committees" that produce vague "recommendations"

Industries; and Arthur Mensch, the CEO of Mistral AI.

Also, Alex Karp of Palantir Technologies was invited. This massive big data corporation has worked with the CIA, the DHS, the NSA, the FBI, and the CDC. The company's corporate clients include Morgan Stanley, Merck KGaA, Airbus, Wejo, Lilium, PG&E, and Fiat Chrysler Automobiles. In 2020, the UK's National Health Service (NHS) awarded Palantir an emergency non-competitive contract to mine COVID-19 data.

Alex Karp, CEO of Palantir Technologies.

One of the company's offerings is Palantir Gotham, a product that uses AI for a dystopian concept of "predictive policing" (yes, like the movie Minority Report). However, considering the fact that crime is actually on the rise in major cities around the world (some say it is by design), one can ask: What is this technology actually used for?

Big Pharma Corruption

If we've learned one thing from COVID-19, it is that big pharmaceutical companies exert an inordinate amount of power on national governments. Countries around the world forced citizens to take vaccines from these select pharmaceutical companies under the threat of job loss and complete ostracisation from society. Some countries even developed "vaccine passports" – big pharma's biggest fantasy.

Some of the most important actors in this unholy system were present at Bilderberg 2024, including the head of the EU Centre for Disease Prevention and Control and, of course, the CEO of Pfizer.

Albert Bourla – the chairman and CEO of Pfizer – is also a regular at the World Economic Forum (WEF).

The media like to call him “Dr.” Albert Bourla, making it seem as if he’s a medical doctor. But he’s not. He used to be a veterinarian. This might explain why he tends to treat his customers like cattle. If you think I’m exaggerating, here’s a short video of him getting very excited about pills containing microchips.

Albert Bourla at World Economic Forum 2018 is Excited About Electronic...

Bourla said:

“FDA approved the first ‘electronic pill’, if I can call it like that. It is basically a biological chip that is in the tablet and, once you take the tablet, and it dissolves into your stomach, it sends a signal that you took the tablet. So imagine the applications of that, the compliance. The insurance companies would know that the medicines that patients should take, they do take them. It is fascinating what happens in this field.”

behind closed doors. At secret meetings.

Infiltrate the Media

The main goal of this site is to highlight the global elite's total infiltration of mass media. From entertainment to “journalism,” nearly all media that reaches the masses needs to comply with the elite's agendas. For this reason, Bilderberg meetings always include powerful figures in all forms of media.

This year's meeting included Gerhard Zeiler, the President of Warner Bros. Discovery International – a media conglomerate that owns brands such as Adult Swim, Boomerang, Cartoon Network, Discovery Channel, TLC, TBS, TNT, and Warner TV.

Of course, the music industry cannot be ignored. For this reason, Daniel EK, the CEO of Spotify, was at the Bilderberg meeting. Was he being told how his near-monopolistic music distribution platform needs to be shaped to serve elite goals? Will it be used to promote elite-friendly artists only?

The realm of “journalism” (I use quotation marks because these people betrayed their profession) is also important for the Bilderbergers. Representatives of news publications worldwide were invited to the event, including Bret Stephens of the New York Times. Interesting fact: The New York Times attacked The Vigilant Citizen several times for reporting on Pizzagate. Did they receive orders from above?

Zanny Minton Beddoes, the editor-in-chief of The Economist, was in attendance at Bilderberg 2024. John Micklethwait, the publication's past editor-in-chief, was also there. As seen in previous articles on this site, The Economist routinely publishes bizarre, end-of-year covers that eerily predict events that come to fruition soon after. Is this strange trend happening because they're privy to Bilderberg-level information?

One of The Economist's cryptic covers.

Another media-related Bilderberg guest was Fareed Zakaria, host of CNN's Fareed Zakaria GPS. He's also a Washington Post and Newsweek columnist and a regular guest at the World Economic Forum.

Engineering Wars

Bilderberg 2024 was heavily centered around the business of waging war. The Economist (mentioned above) once dubbed Ukraine “an AI war lab,” describing it as “a testing ground for companies like Anduril and Palantir.” Both of these companies were mentioned above as they were invited to Bilderberg as well.

Alex Karp, the CEO of Palantir, once stated:

“There are things that we can do on the battlefield that we could not do in a domestic context.”

The IDF is currently using Palantir technology in Palestine “in support of war-related missions.” This association is generating great profits for the company, as Karp enthusiastically stated: “Our products have been in great demand.”

Another guest of honor at Bilderberg is Eric Schmidt, the former CEO of Google.

Former Google CEO Eric Schmidt was at Bilderberg 2024.

So what is he up to now? War. According to Forbes magazine, Schmidt was so “inspired by Ukraine’s use of drones on the battlefield” that he has spent the past year “working on a secret military drone project.” Schmidt also said that Ukraine needed “sustained financial and technical support from Kyiv’s allies.” Yes, he’s urging governments to fund the war because this taxpayer money would go into his pockets.

Appropriately enough, Ukraine’s foreign minister, Dmytro Kuleba, is also present at Bilderberg 2024. All of the important actors in this war are present at this meeting. It for Technology and National Security of the United States; and Richard H. Phillips, Director of National Intelligence of the United States.

What are these government officials dealing with sensitive topics even doing at this meeting? Are they working for the American people ... or the global elite?

Grooming “Leaders”

Stacey Abrams uses an American flag to do a one-eye sign in a 2020 fluff piece by the Washington Post (mentioned above). What better way of showing submission to the global elite over national interests?

Sitting at the top of the alphabetical list of Bilderberg attendees is a curious name: Stacey Abrams. The first question that comes to mind is: What is she even doing there? In 2018, she lost the Georgia gubernatorial election to Republican Brian Kemp but refused to concede. Four years later, she lost again to Kemp by a much larger margin.

Despite being rejected by voters, Abrams keeps being artificially propped up by the media and the political establishment. In 2019, she became the first and only non-office-holding person ever to deliver the response to the State of the Union address. In 2021, she was nominated for a Nobel Peace Prize for her “nonviolent campaign to get out the vote.” Really?

This year, she attended the Bilderberg meeting as the CEO of Sage Works Production – a media production company that did not produce anything yet.

Abrams played the President of United Earth in Star Trek: Discovery. You can't make this up.

In Conclusion

A study of Bilderberg meetings reveals how modern democracies do not follow the will of the people—they follow the will of the elite. If democracies aren't compromised, why are so many heads of state present at these meetings (e.g., Mark Rutte, the Netherlands' Prime Minister)? Also, why are there so many important government officials (e.g., Marco Buschmann, the minister of justice of Germany)? Aren't they supposed to serve the people? Because it seems like they're actually serving the Furthermore, why are these elected officials colliding with the heads of big pharma corporations? And tech companies that profit from war? Why are they discussing with journalists who've made it a career to promote globalism while shunning those who express diverging opinions?

Bilderberg meetings are the only proof needed to understand that “conspiracy theories” are not “theories” at all. They are verified facts. Those who do not see it probably watched too much Fareed Zakaria praising the elite on CNN.

Please don't refer to them as "elites". More fitting would be a**holes, trash, well almost anything would be better than elites. Zero respect should be given to these p.o.s.

The elite have used figures like Alex Jones to promote vitriol just like this against them. It serves to detract from the effective exchange of information and promote hysterical radicalism that is easily discredited

Just wanna smack the smug faces of these snobs who believe the people of the world – those who create the wealth used to fund these a-holes – are lab rats for experimentation and extermination for the furtherance of their world government. Little do they know – or maybe they do – that they'll be first up against the wall when their 'glorious' revolution comes
